Our purpose is to improve the lives of customers, build a better society and create value for our shareholders. We use long term assets in an economically and socially useful way.

We see our approach to taxation as very much a continuation of that theme – we pay the right tax at the right time. Paying and collecting taxes is part of our role as a responsible business and we take pride in the contribution we make to society through our products, our investments in housing and other infrastructure assets and our contribution through the taxes we pay and collect.
Our Tax Strategy

Our tax strategy is set to be Sustainable, Well Governed, Fair and Transparent

Our Behaviours

• We always consider the Group’s reputation, and corporate and social responsibilities when considering tax.

• We work with HMRC and other tax authorities co-operatively, collaboratively and on a real time basis where possible.

• We consider tax as part of every major business decision.

• We contribute to the development of UK and international tax policy and legislation where we can.

Our Actions

• We meet all of our legal requirements, making all appropriate tax returns and tax payments accurately and on time in the territories in which we operate.

• We do not undertake any transactions with the sole purpose of creating a tax benefit in excess of what is intended by relevant tax legislation, or what is outside of the Group’s risk appetite, or is not in line with our Group Code of Ethics.

• We operate appropriate tax risk governance processes, including Board oversight.

Our approach to tax is consistent with our values. We manage tax risk consistently with the Group’s three lines of defence risk framework.
Our Tax Strategy in action

We aim to be:

- Sustainable long term – our Group’s tax rate depends on our business performance and not artificial tax planning
- Well governed – we manage tax risk like any other risk in our business and invest in our people
- Fair – we recognise the impact tax has on wider society and undertake to act responsibly in all tax matters
- Transparent – we seek to explain the taxation of our business to all our stakeholders

Our tax strategy helps us meet those aims and is regularly reviewed and approved by our Audit Committee. As Chief Tax Officer I have day-to-day responsibility for our strategy and how we implement in line with our values.

The Group Tax team at L&G is responsible for the development, management and delivery of the tax strategy for the Group. This includes responsibility for the Group’s tax policy, external influence, risk management, advice, reporting, compliance, providing tax insight across all parts of our business and of course making sure that we have the right people in the right roles.

Grace Stevens
Chief Tax Officer

Our tax strategy supports our Group strategy and the way we do business. It is clear about what we will and will not do on tax.”

Grace Stevens
Chief Tax Officer

We have a responsibility to create better value for our shareholders and help build a better society - and we recognise that paying and collecting taxes is an important part of how our businesses contribute to society.
Our Tax Universe

At L&G we pay and collect a number of taxes – for our business, our people, our customers and our investments. We pay and collect various taxes in the countries in which we operate. The taxes we pay primarily arise where our business assets, capital, people and customers are located – where we have real economic substance.

Business:
Tax on our profits, employment taxes and transaction taxes

Customers:
Income tax withheld and paid to HMRC on annuity payments

People:
Income tax and NIC withheld and paid to HMRC

Investments:
Withholding taxes on investment returns and transaction taxes

Our consolidated Group includes approximately 300 taxable entities, including companies, branches, funds, trusts and partnerships operating in twelve jurisdictions: UK, USA, Bermuda, Ireland, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Jersey, Luxembourg, Netherlands and Australia.

Our Group’s asset management, insurance and savings activities can be complex and involve significant transactional volumes and values as well as cross-border transactions.

Our strategic approach is to ensure that existing and proposed transactions do not create unintended tax costs for our investors and policyholders, over and above what we think is intended by tax legislation.

All of the jurisdictions in which we operate have, or are implementing, international exchange of tax information agreements.

Our Tax Governance Framework

Responsibility for our Group’s management of tax risk ultimately rests with the Board, with day to day responsibilities for the implementation of the Group’s Tax strategy and supporting tax policies resting with the Chief Tax Officer.

Our tax risk management policy is aligned with the Group’s three lines of defence risk governance model, which includes a formal assessment of tax related risks and a reporting process to ensure that tax risk in the business is managed in line with tax risk appetite. The risk rating of an issue will determine how far it is escalated through the risk governance structure, including ultimately to the Board.

How L&G manages tax risk
L&G operates a “three lines of defence” policy for managing all operational risk. The management of tax risk is consistent with the three lines of defence model and can be summarised as:

1. Tax risks and the day to day management of tax process are owned by our business units (Group Tax owns the processes that it operates). Group Tax acts in support of the our business units in the design and testing of tax related control frameworks and risk reporting and as a subject matter expert for our Group Risk function
2. Group Internal Audit acts with independence for the last line of assurance, and Group Tax can act in support if there is no conflict of interest with Group Tax
3. Tax risk is managed by employing appropriately qualified and experienced people in key tax related roles, with specific tax responsibilities and accountabilities included in their job descriptions acting under appropriate delegated authorities

Our tax risks explained

The key tax risks for the Group, together with acceptable risk level and approach to risk management are stated below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Our Tax Risks</th>
<th>Tax Risks explained</th>
<th>Our Risk Appetite</th>
<th>Our Risk Management</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tax Legislation and Other Regulations</td>
<td>New tax legislation, changes in interpretation or application of existing tax legislation, changes in tax rates and changes in accounting standards or other regulations, including tax policy, can generate significant tax risks.</td>
<td>We may accept and manage tax risk where the Group’s interpretation of the application of specific tax legislation differs from a tax authority’s, but will not seek to apply an aggressive interpretation of tax legislation outside what is understood to be intended.</td>
<td>We actively monitor new or changing tax legislation and where appropriate participate in consultations over proposed legislation, either directly or through trade bodies.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>These changes may result in additional tax costs for the Group and additional complexity in complying with new legislation or regulation.</td>
<td>For high value tax risks based on technical interpretation, Group Tax will typically obtain a pre-transaction validation of its technical position from reputable professional tax advisors.</td>
<td>We actively engage with tax authorities to understand changes in their interpretation of existing tax legislation and seek tax authority clearances on our interpretation where we can.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reputational</td>
<td>Our tax strategy aims to balance the needs of our key stakeholders. However our stakeholders’ expectations on our tax behaviours and those of large corporates generally, are going through a period of unprecedented change. We need to understand these changes and where necessary adapt our tax behaviours to manage any impact on our reputation within our overall Group risk appetite.</td>
<td>We have a low risk appetite for suffering any detriment to our reputation that may be caused by our approach to, or decisions taken in respect of, taxation. We might take a stronger view with a tax authority to ensure the right outcome for our customers.</td>
<td>We actively work to understand our stakeholders’ expectations of us on tax, for example through constructive co-operative working with HMRC, our Investor Relations team’s interaction with shareholders and our discussions with a range of non-governmental organisations, to understand our stakeholders’ perspective on tax.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Stakeholder influence is factored into the tax decision-making process to ensure we adopt a suitable approach to reputational risk.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Compliance &amp; Reporting</td>
<td>Ineffective management of our tax affairs could result in the Group incurring excessive tax costs disproportionate to the Group’s results. Errors could be made, resulting in interest and penalty costs, as well as any payments of historic tax due. As well as cash tax due, we may be subject to additional costs related to increased audit activity from tax authorities.</td>
<td>All significant tax risks are reported and monitored in the Group’s risk management systems. Accepted tax risks are reported to relevant local risk and compliance committees, and if appropriate, will feed up to the Audit and Group Risk committees in line with Group procedures. We have low tolerance for tax risk arising from errors or omissions, late submission of tax returns or late tax payments for routine and established tax compliance obligations.</td>
<td>We actively manage tax risks associated with tax compliance &amp; reporting processes by devoting considerable effort to ensuring that our compliance and reporting obligations are fulfilled using well designed and controlled processes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>We employ appropriately qualified and experienced people in key tax related roles, with specific tax responsibilities and accountabilities included in their job descriptions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>We act quickly to remediate omissions and where applicable disclose adjustments to the relevant stakeholders.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Transactional</td>
<td>Transactional tax risks can be generated through new product releases, corporate transactions or expanding operations into new countries. Failure to understand and effectively manage transactional tax risks could result in additional tax related costs.</td>
<td>Tax risks for material transactions will usually only be accepted on the basis of full disclosure to, or clearances from, the tax authorities where possible. We may accept greater levels of tax risk if it is determined as acceptable as part of the overall commercial risk assessment of a transaction.</td>
<td>We actively manage tax risks associated with new transactions, products and countries. We work in partnership with the relevant business areas to understand risk exposures.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>We mitigate our transactional tax risks by full disclosure to the tax authorities on a real time basis.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Where there is a particularly complicated or significant transaction, we will validate our assessment with appropriate tax advisers.</td>

Our Commitments to Tax Transparency

Tax is an important and integral part of our business and we are committed to being transparent on tax.

- We recognise that our stakeholders on tax not only include our investors, tax authorities, customers and employees, but also wider society.
- We aim to provide useful information to our stakeholders to help them understand how we manage our tax affairs and the contribution we make to society through the taxes we pay and this includes voluntarily disclosing additional information which we consider is useful for our stakeholders to better understand our tax affairs.
- We have an open, cooperative and collaborative working relationship with HMRC, and other tax authorities where appropriate, across all our taxes.
- We believe that open consultation with governments results in more informed and sustainable tax legislation and we work with governments both directly and via industry trade bodies to respond to consultations and to explain the impact of proposals on our business, customers and investors.
- We engage with a range of interested parties and non-governmental organisations to discuss concerns about the tax system and responsible and transparent tax practices of large companies. This is in light of the expectations of society, governments and consumers for large companies on tax responsibility and transparency.
- As a significant investor, we ensure we speak to the companies we invest in about their tax policy and management as part of our overall engagement with them on governance and environmental and social impact.

Reinsurance

L&G operate a global reinsurance hub in Bermuda, which was established in 2015 to act as the reinsurance hub for the Group and to support the growth of our international Pension Risk Transfer business.

Our Bermudan operations are staffed by our dedicated team of insurance and finance professionals. As there are no profit taxes in Bermuda, the taxes we pay in Bermuda are on our people and property.

Bermuda is one of the largest reinsurance markets in the world with a robust, Solvency II equivalent, regulatory framework and the Bermuda Monetary Authority (BMA) is a well-established regulator. Bermuda has a highly qualified and experienced local workforce.

Funds

We have established collective investment schemes, which are investment funds or entities, in Jersey, Ireland and Luxembourg. It is common to set up funds in jurisdictions like these that do not impose an additional layer of tax on the fund itself. Instead the investment return is taxed in the hands of the investor as though they were directly investing in the assets themselves – this ensures that as much investment return as possible flows through to the investors themselves.

Regardless of what territory the fund is established in, investors will pay tax on their returns in line with the tax rules of the jurisdiction they are resident in. Where our Group companies invest in these funds, they pay corporation tax in their country of residence (usually the UK) on any investment return.

We routinely undertake tax reclaims on behalf of our policyholders where this is in line with local law and industry practice. This reclaim process is typically undertaken by our custodians with oversight from Group Tax.

Where we feel that the application of withholding tax is contrary to the law, we file claims with the respective tax authorities, for example, where withholding taxes are suffered on certain investments in EU territories. These claims may result in litigation against the respective tax authority where we consider that there is a good chance of success. These claims are made on behalf of policyholders, and the net proceeds of successful claims are paid to those policyholders.
Our attitude to tax planning and the use of tax advisors

Tax law contains claims and elections and a wide variety of options whereby tax matters can be managed efficiently, and where such outcomes are expected and are widely regarded as within the spirit of the law. We will make use of government endorsed tax claims and elections, or seek to benefit from exemptions or similar mechanisms available within the tax legislation but we will not undertake transactions whose sole purpose is to create a tax benefit which is in excess of what is generally understood to be intended by tax legislation.

We will undertake tax planning only in the context of wider business activity with real and commercial basis. Where we have a choice on how to structure a particular transaction, investment or business, we will structure it in a tax efficient manner where we have concluded that it is a responsible, sustainable choice which fits with our business and tax strategy, in line with what we understand the intentions of the legislation to be for us, our policyholders and our investors. We do not base our decision on aggressive interpretations of the tax law.

L&G is evolving in an ever-changing economic and regulatory environment. As a result we will engage external tax advisors to discuss and validate our understanding of the legislation on significant transactions or to provide insight or specialist advice on specific legislation, wider industry practice or tax authority approach. We do use advisors for compliance or routine activity in some cases or locations where this is more cost-effective or operationally sensible.

We apply arms-length transfer pricing principles to payments between Group companies in line with our Group transfer pricing policy and OECD requirements. Where these transactions arise between two companies in different territories we seek third party advice to ensure those payments are priced correctly. Where appropriate, we may seek to obtain an Advance Pricing Agreement (APA) with the relevant tax authorities in order to gain certainty over future cash flows.

Our Interaction with Tax Authorities, NGOs and Other Third Parties

Tax Authorities

L&G principally operate in the UK, however an increasing proportion of our business is conducted overseas. We undertake to apply the same rigorous principles of transparency wherever we do business.

Where possible and practical, we will discuss new and complex tax positions with relevant tax authorities in real-time. For material issues this is often in advance of the transaction, or for other matters this would generally be before submission of the relevant tax returns. We may request generally available statutory or non-statutory clearances from relevant tax authorities in respect of specific transactions where there is material uncertainty or where the transaction is material to the Group company involved.

Tax authorities understand that businesses come in different shapes and sizes, and due to the intricacies of existing legislation, new legislation may have unintended consequences. Consultations on legislation with businesses and business groups allow HMRC to shift the burden of considering detailed implications to tax payers. From time to time we participate in those consultations, either alone or as part of a wider business forum, with the view to improving the quality and relevance of legislation and to mitigate any outcomes which we consider to be inconsistent with the policy objective.

NGOs and Other Third Parties

Countries’ approach to taxation is increasingly undertaken on a joined-up basis, with harmonisation of requirements facilitated by NGOs, like the OECD, and the EU. A need for greater tax transparency on a multinational level has led to the OECD Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) framework and the EU Directive for Administrative Cooperation (DAC).

We actively monitor developments as recommendations made by these groups are often adopted by tax authorities. Where appropriate we will respond to consultations on future principles in so far as these could impact L&G, with the aim of clarifying areas of uncertainty ahead of local implementation.

We also fully support and have participated in the United Nations-supported Principles for Responsible Investment, an international network of investors to understand the implications of sustainability. We have participated on the investor taskforce to produce guidance for investors’ engagements on corporate tax responsibility.
